BRITISH TENNIS STARS TAKE HOME 260 TITLES IN 2024

2024 has marked another significant year for British players competing on the ATP, WTA, ITF and UNIQLLO Wheelchair Tennis Tours, winning an incredible 260 unique pro titles this year – more than both the previous two years in 2022 (209) and 2023 (214).

This includes:

- 95 different British title winners
- 181 non-wheelchair titles
- 79 wheelchair titles

From Grand Slams to Paralympics, British stars have clinched silverware all over the world and at almost every level of the professional game. 61 of these titles have come on home soil and the LTA has today published the 2025 Performance Competitions Calendar which can be viewed here: Performance Competitions Calendar All Tennis Tournaments | LTA

Grand Slam and Paralympic glory

Henry Patten, Alfie Hewett, Gordon Reid and Andy Lapthorne all made headlines this year as British Grand Slam champions.

28-year-old Patten won a first major title alongside Finnish partner Harri Heliövaara at Wimbledon. The third Briton to win the men's doubles title in the Open Era, it sparked a meteoric rise for Patten, going on to become British No.1, reach a career-high world No.12 and qualifying for his first Nitto ATP Finals where he reached the semi-finals.

In wheelchair tennis, 26-year-old Hewett won his maiden Wimbledon singles title and a Paralympic silver medal in men's singles, whilst continuing his dominance with Gordon Reid in Grand Slam doubles with titles at the Australian Open, Roland Garros and Wimbledon, before completing the Golden Slam with gold in the men's doubles at Paris 2024.

British quad wheelchair tennis star Lapthorne added a seventh Australian Open doubles title to his tally back in January and added another Paralympic silver medal to his collection alongside Greg Slade in the quad doubles.

Boulter, Draper & Kartal lift tour titles

Katie Boulter, Jack Draper and Sonay Kartal set new milestones of their own this season after all three won tour-level singles titles. British No.1 Boulter won biggest title of her career at the WTA 500 San Diego, as well as defending her title at the Rothesay Open Nottingham.

Draper has enjoyed the best season of his career in 2024, clinching his first ATP silverware in Stuttgart and doubled his tally for the year in Vienna, becoming the fourth British man to win an ATP 500 title in the Open Era after Andy Murray, Cam Norrie and Dan Evans.

Following a thrilling run to the third round of Wimbledon, 22-year-old Kartal won her maiden WTA title at the Jasmin Open in Monastir, Tunisia. The Brighton-native has made waves on the LTA Performance Competitions Calendar this year with five titles on home soil, but competing on the hard courts in Tunisia, claimed the biggest accolade of her career and broke the WTA top 100 for the first time.

In the doubles, Neal Skupski claimed back-to-back titles at the cinch Championships and Rothesay International to be one of four Brits alongside Jamie Murray, Lloyd Glasspool and Julian Cash to claim ATP 500 titles. Meanwhile, Olivia Nicholls won the biggest women's doubles title of the season with Australian Olivia Gadecki in Texas, in a year where she has become British No.1 and broken into the WTA top 40. Emily Appleton and Maia Lumsden also finished the year on a high by winning the WTA 125 women's doubles crown in Midland, Michigan.

British singles stars clinch silverware on the Challenger ITF Tours

One of 2024's rising stars, Jacob Fearnley burst onto the scene with his first ATP Challenger title at the Rothesay Open Nottingham. The TCU graduate went on to capture trophies in Lincoln, Rennes and Orleans to become only the second Brit to win four Challenger titles in a season after Draper in 2022. His performances saw him break into the ATP top 100 for the first time.

Jan Choinski also got his hands on ATP Challenger Tour silverware on the clay courts in Tulln, Austria – the third singles Challenger of his career so far.

British women found success on the ITF Tour, with Jodie Burrage, Lily Miyazaki, Fran Jones and Heather Watson all capturing singles silverware, Burrage's being the biggest title of her career at the W100 Dubai. British juniors enjoyed positive starts to their transitions to the pro tour, with junior US Open champion Mika Stojsavljevic, Mimi Xu and Ella McDonald all capturing their first singles titles in 2024.

British wheelchair tennis goes from strength to strength

There's been plenty more to celebrate in British wheelchair tennis as well on both the men's and the women's sides. In addition to Grand Slam champions and Paralympic medallists, several British players on the LTA Wheelchair Performance Pathway won titles in 2024.

Lucy Shuker won six ITF doubles trophies – the best of which came at the ITF1 Daegu Open alongside Dutch partner Aniek van Koot. Ruby Bishop rounded off an impressive campaign with a total of six combined singles and doubles titles, Cornelia Oosthuizen won six, including at Birmingham, meanwhile Abbie Breakwell lifted three ITF Futures trophies this year.

Andrew Penney was a four-time ITF singles title winner, Ben Bartram took home the singles title at the Kaohsiung Open to add to his two doubles crowns this year, while Dahnnon Ward won the Abingdon Futures singles trophy.
